The unanimous belief of the American People that our national defense must be put on a war footing doesn't mean there won't be a bitter fight over how rearmament shall be financed. The powerful House Ways & Means Committee Tuesday approved one thing we are opposed to — raising the legal debt limit of the federal government from present 45 billion dollars to 49 billions. . . . Why 49 billions? Isn't that a weasly confession that financing our national defense program is pretty much like a bargain sale, where 99 cents sounds more attractive than a flat $1?

Harrison Favors F. D. R. Third Term

Mississippi Critic Surprises Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Harrison (Dem. Miss.) called for a third term for President Roosevelt Wednesday and administration supporters interpreted this as a sign of increasing party solidarity behind the executive.

"The nation is now confronted with grave international and domestic problems," Harrison said, adding that he believed it "imperative that the president be re-elected."

Harrison made his statement in a telegram to Herbert Hoover, Mississippi Democratic chairman. Saying that the pending tax legislation would keep him in Washington, the senator asked Hoover to advise Mississippi's Democratic convention Tuesday that he hoped the convention would "unanimously endorse President Roosevelt for a third term."

Harrison, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, often has opposed Mr. Roosevelt on tax and spending legislation and today's statement came as a surprise to several colleagues.

Senator Pepper (Dem. Fla.) said Harrison's declaration "simply indicates that all question regarding a third term has disappeared and that liberals, conservatives and middle-of-the-roads are coming together for the safety of our country."

Allies Appeal to U. S. to Speed Up Supply Shipments

Couch Ravors It —
Meanwhile, France
Sees New Hope

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The white house reported Thursday America's ambassadors to Paris and London, "telephoning and cabling, are asking we do everything we can to speed up production of military essentials."

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, made this statement when asked about reports that the envoys had transmitted to the government requests that plane and military equipment deliveries to the Allies be rushed.

Couch Urges Action
LITTLE ROCK — (AP) — Harvey Couch, president of the Kansas City Southern railroad and head of a far-flung utilities development in the Southwest, Thursday urged an amendment to existing laws to permit shipment of every sort of supplies to the Allies "on credit, if necessary," and expressed his willingness to do voluntary personal service abroad in any capacity, "if worse comes to worse."

France Sees New Hope
PARIS — (AP) — Premier Reynaud, France's new one-man director of war, told his countrymen Thursday night there is now "reason for hope," despite "grave present news."

The premier said "hundreds of fighting planes and bombing planes from Germany have flown recently over Paris."

"As you well know we have not left this attack without answer. Every French village or town attacked will find an answer in a German village or town attacked likewise."

It is adequate national defense. And "adequate national defense" includes a lot of things besides guns.

It includes, for instance, a government management and credit made strong by balancing income and outgo — not made weak by spending borrowed money because it didn't have the intestinal fortitude to raise taxes.

Pine Bluff Man Attempts Suicide

E. W. Freeman, Jr.,
Found Badly Cut at Miami, Fla.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — (AP) — E. W. Freeman Jr., 43, business manager of Pine Bluff (Ark.) Commercial, daily newspaper, was in a critical condition in a hospital Wednesday night from throat wounds which Detective Fete Stewart said were self-inflicted.

The hospital reported Mr. Freeman had received a blood transfusion and apparently was "holding his own."

Mr. Stewart said that Mrs. Freeman returned from a store and found her husband writhing on the bathroom floor and slashing at his throat with a razor blade which a hotel maid was trying to wrest from him. Patrolman Gus Armstrong arrived later, Mr. Stewart said, and knocked the blade from the man's hand.

The detective said Mr. Freeman had been under medical care during four months he had been convalescing here.

Advance Claimed by Germans; Tanks Beaten, Say French

Tanks Let Through
Then Trapped, French
Declare

"QUAGMIRE" PLAN

Meanwhile, Germans
Bomb East Coast of England

BERLIN — (AP) — The German high command announced Thursday its troops, on the offensive, were pushing toward the heart of France, and gained ground "everywhere" in a sweep toward the southwest.

This, however, was the only indication of the course of the Somme offensive to be given in the high command's communique.

The high command's terse statement of the southwestern direction of the drive supported previous German indications that the important French Channel ports of Le Havre and Cherbourg may be the first objectives of the offensive.

By such an operation the German armies might turn the Somme flank and block off Paris from the west, cutting off France and England from effective communication or contact.

French Claim No Gain
PARIS — German motorized divisions and tank corps heading Adolf Hitler's great drive for Paris smashed into the Weygand line along the Somme and Aisne rivers Thursday, the French reported, but only to be engulfed and broken by the "quagmire" defense of the French.

The new French tactics for meeting the blitzkrieg were said to have entangled the German tanks in forward zones, permitting their destruction at will.

(The semi-official Telefrance News agency reported 25 German tanks had been destroyed at Chaulnes, nine miles southwest of Peronne.)

Paris commentators declared the Nazi "panzer" division warriors on wheels or caterpillar treads—had suffered heavy losses.

Battle in Air
LONDON — (AP) — Trading aerial blows in unceasing warfare, Germany's airforce Thursday unleashed its most extensive bombing attack on England since the war began, while British fighters were reported officially to have attacked German troops, supply bases, and communication lines in raids extending from the battle zone in France to the industrial Ruhr valley in western Germany.

The Nazis dropped high explosives and incendiary bombs in a sweep over a 270-mile stretch of the English coastline early Thursday and Wednesday night in an apparent search for British airdromes.

Nazi Tanks Trapped
PARIS — (AP) — German armored columns which broke into the main French front on the Somme as the spearpoints of a great offensive, said Wednesday night to have been entrapped in a new system of defense created by General Weygand for the supreme stand to save Paris. Not one of the tanks, military dispatches asserted, got all the way through the network of defenses.

Authorized sources claimed the savage new Nazi offensive had been checked generally along all the battle line. Frenchmen, they added, were holding firm against machines.

Nazi tanks advanced through open spaces in the French defenses only to meet successive French "support points" like field fortifications of new design. The first points, armed with machine guns, were erected on the banks of canals and streams lining the battle area. Back of them were gun nests at crossroads in the fortified villages and on the hills.

Then, military informants said, the line ended in deep woods where any German units which succeeded in breaking through to those points were slowed down and halted by guns concealed in the shadows.

Would Use CCC to Train U.S. Army

Major R. Fechner, Deceased Originated the Idea

By JACK STINETT

WASHINGTON.—The dream of a young man who died in the United States military service, and who had a powerful influence on the world, is being carried out by the United States Army.

More than four years ago, the late Robert Fechner, then director of the Civilian Conservation Corps, introduced a bill to Congress which would have given the CCC the right to train young men in the military service.

The bill, which would have given the CCC the right to train young men in the military service, was introduced in the House of Representatives by Major R. Fechner, then director of the Civilian Conservation Corps, and was passed by the House in 1941.

The bill, which would have given the CCC the right to train young men in the military service, was introduced in the House of Representatives by Major R. Fechner, then director of the Civilian Conservation Corps, and was passed by the House in 1941.

Only a week or so ago, 85 young men left west coast CCC camps to take skilled jobs in six aircraft companies which are speeding production of military planes.

More recently, then, the CCC graduated 500 young men to the United States military service, giving the total to 800 CCC boys who, in the last year, have been chosen for training in merchant shipping.

The average period of work in the CCC for white youths has been a little more than nine months, for Negro boys about 13 months. The CCC has turned out efficient, if not expert workers in construction, clerical, cooking, handling of Diesel engines, explosives, mapmaking, telephone work, auto, tractor, radio and aviation mechanics.

Tested by Fire, Flood

In addition, Mr. McEntee points out that the boys invariably follow a sound health routine, learn how to live together, and how to take orders.

These activities are going on in 1,500 camps today. Appropriations have been made for maintaining that number next year. And suddenly the legislators and government executives, faced with the ghastly tragedy in Europe and the possibilities of repercussions in America have become aware of these camps as something more than a relief project.

Could it be that for a second time this modern holocaust has raised up another prophet who was without honor when he lived? Will Major Fechner, with his dream of a compulsory militarized CCC take his place with the late Gen. "Billy" Mitchell, the man who knew too soon the value of a great air force?

AN EYE FOR A GAL BY HARRY HARRISON KROLL

● SERIAL STORY

YESTERDAY: Dr. Tolliver appeared for Hannah to stay in school. When he got to her place, he found her in a state of shock. She had just learned that her father, who had been living with the Tollivers, had been killed in a plane crash. She was now alone in the world.

CHAPTER IV

THE terrible impact of Hannah Shrider's hand on Rossy McEntee's face, left a glowing, four-pronged picture on his amazed and bloodless cheek. He wallowed a moment on the floor, where he had fallen after the girl slapped the fire out of him. He gulped, started to rise. Murder ran through his arteries and muscles. "You—you—I'll knock the tar out of you!"

Hannah made ready to meet him blow for blow. "Knock the tar out of me, dad-burn your low-life time! Just come on and knock the tar out of me!"

Rossy looked up at the passionate face of the girl he had once asked to marry him. He remembered that day, in the spring, when the orchard trees were pink and white and the bland wind waved her tawny hair.

Anger went out of him. He got clumsily to his feet, and stood just staring at her. The commotion of their scrap brought a heavy figure to the door, and there stood Mrs. Patterson.

"It was my fault," Rossy said. "Blame it on me, not her. I reckon it'll take me a little time to act like white folks."

"I'll report you to Dr. Tolliver, sir!" Mrs. Patterson promised grimly.

Rossy picked his hat from the floor and clamped it on his head. "I'll be seeing you," he said mechanically.

Hannah bawled, "I don't want never to see you again, Rossy McEntee!"

He turned upon her, "Them's the death-bed words of all the gals that make up the world's mess of old maids." He added with a sneer, "But I reckon you'd like to see our dear Cousin Steve Hogg again! He's got money that's never been spent!"

Hannah came right back, "Yes, and he asked me to marry him, too, and at least he wouldn't two-time me every time I turned my back a minute!"

ROSSY knew this led to a renewal of the battle. He went sadly out and stood looking up at the stars. Mrs. Patterson would report this to Dr. Tolliver first thing in the morning. The two of them would be dragged on the carpet almost before they had got settled in school. If it got out—and how could it be kept?—he and Hannah would be the laughing stock of the student body, and then he would have to kill somebody to shut the stuff up.

Judy was just finishing a telephone conversation when he slipped in. She hung up and stopped him.

"Come over here on the sofa," When he reluctantly complied, she examined him with that odd smile of hers. There was amusement in it, and also something else he did not understand. "I have just been talking with Mrs. Patterson."

Rossy gave a start. "She told you, I reckon."

"Yes, and I asked her not to take it to father."

Rossy tried to think of something nice to say about this, but all he could think of was, "Yes'm."

"There wouldn't be any point in making it a matter for the administrative council," she went on, curling her legs under her. "But you don't want to fight like that, Rossy."

"Yes'm. I mean no'm."

"You're in school now. You want to get an education. You want to be a gentleman. You want to acquire a certain amount of—well, culture. That is, you want to get the rust knocked off. Make yourself into somebody. Don't you, Rossy?"

"I reckon so," he admitted grudgingly.

"Of course, you do. That's why you're here at all. And, you want to play baseball, maybe become a great pitcher and work your way up to the big leagues, and all that, but even so you want to amount to something, become a somebody. Isn't that right, Rossy?"

He gulped. "Yes'm."

"Well, bawling with your sweetheart won't start you off in the direction you plan to go—"

"She ain't my sweetheart any more."

THERE was a moment of silence between them, during which she continued to look at him, watch him, but gravely and no longer with amusement. Then she did what to Rossy was a startling thing—she moved over and took his hand.

"You don't want to break off with your sweetheart over so slight a thing as—well, a little spat—you want to be broadminded, at least try to learn to be broadminded—"

"I hope you don't call being smacked flat a slight thing!"

"No, but bawling and fighting like that is small!"

He kept sitting there, liking the touch of Judy's hand, trying to

HARRISON IN HOLLYWOOD

By PAUL HARRISON, NEA Service Correspondent

Frank James Rides Again (Jesse Plumb Dead); Gene Tierney May Gallop to Success With Him

HOLLYWOOD — The James boys were not what you'd call first-rate citizens, but their fictionalized ghosts have performed some notable bone-factions. With a story recently based on the life of Jesse, 20th-Fox made the biggest money-grossing picture of 1946. The same epic launched Nancy Kelly on a comfortable flicker career.

Jesse gave everything he had to that film, dying and being buried even beyond the miniature miracles of the cinema. So Brother Frank now is coming to bat for Darryl Zanuck and the stockholders. "The Return (in Technicolor) of Frank James" also will serve as an introductory vehicle for another promising young actress. Her name is Gene Tierney.

Your correspondent watched Miss Tierney play her first scene before a camera and then took her to lunch. For me, both experiences were notable. I never have observed greater composure on a set. She talked right up to our Henry Fonda, she's Frank James, and didn't muffle a line or piece of business. I asked, "Aren't you scared?" and she said, "No, I love it."

Sure Only She Likes to Act

This was not the overconfidence or desperate aggressiveness of many new comers. The green-eyed, interestingly proportioned 19-year-old isn't very sure of anything except that she likes to act.

She agrees she has a lot to learn, on and off the sets.

Her acting career is the outcome of many months of quiet conflict with a wealthy father—Howard E. Tierney, New York insurance broker—who once declared that he'd rather see her dead than in pictures.

Following her education, which included a school in Switzerland, and a social debut and three months of parties, Miss Tierney convinced her father that she was going to have a try at the stage. He assented gracefully enough to accompany her, one day a week, on the rounds of the producers' offices. Each time she was turned down by the brightest visibly.

Finally Made The Grade

Finally, though, she got into a George Abbott play, "Mrs. O'Brien Entertains." That was in January, 1939. It ran only four weeks but won the ingenue a six-months contract in Hollywood, at Columbia.

Nothing happened. She'd drop into the studio occasionally and wistfully ask if a part had been found for her. Impatient executives would answer, "Now look, Miss Tierney—you are getting your check each week, so what are you complaining about? Why don't you go down to Palm Springs and get a tan?"

Back in New York, she was disappointed in a picture which was handed the ingenue lead in "The Male Animal," the James Thurber hit that is still going strong. After four weeks of it, though, she had to come here on her 20th-Fox contract.

Miss Tierney looks a little like Vivien Leigh and, when she smiles, a little like Deanna Durbin. She writes a little poetry sometimes and reads the war news avidly because she has traveled everywhere in Europe. Once, after watching a news-vel of the German invasion, she rushed home and wrote a long, scathing letter to Adolf Hitler.

Belgian Girl of 1917 Asks Help

Suzanne Silvercrus Appeals for American Help

AP Feature Service

NEW YORK—In 1917, 1,500 people gathered at a dinner in Philadelphia to hear Secretary of War Baker.

At the last minute, Baker couldn't appear. Someone glanced at the gallery.

A young Belgian girl in native costume, who was in the gallery, was drafted as a substitute.

She was 17 and never had made a speech, but she held the audience an hour and a half with her first-hand descriptions of the horrors of war. During the next two years, she spoke as "the little Belgian girl" throughout the United States and Canada. She was decorated four times by Belgium.

Now that girl—a middle-aged woman—again is pleading for Belgian relief.

She is Suzanne Silvercrus—author, musician, sculptor, play-wright, actress, social worker, international society leader. She is the daughter of the late Baron Franz Silvercrus, a resident of the Supreme Court of Belgium; a sister of and official hostess for the present Baron Silvercrus, Belgian minister to Canada.

"We have gone through this because," she said, "and we can do it again."

She spoke as a determined Belgian, though she became a naturalized American years ago.

Father's Day Is Sunday June 16

Don't Forget, "the Home Belongs to Daddy," Too

AP Feature Service

The home belongs to daddy, too. But, sometimes it's hard for him to realize it because he hears remarks like, "Don't take off your shoes in here . . . Don't scatter that paper over the floor"—until he almost expects help.

So, for Father's Day, here are some thoughts for the rest of the family (if you need them):

Remember dad is human, too. He likes just to be at home comfortably, sometimes.

Help him have a chance and a place for his hobby.

Consult him about parties. If he has his friend in for an oyster stew in a while, he'll be more willing to dress when you want formal entertainment.

Insist on a regular allowance for him in the family budget.

When you give him presents, don't take a salesman's idea. Consult him or one of his friends who is sure of what pleases him.

In your enthusiasm for your own job, school or housework, don't overlook dad's interest in his profession. Some families demand so much of him that father hesitates to take time for the business clubs he'd like to join. Fathers so often get nagged about business outside of office hours, they sometimes just give up on that score.

Men-Folks Revolt For Cool Clothes

Here's a Chance to Join Keep Cool Revolution

By ADELAIDE KERR

AP Feature Service Writer

Men will be more comfortable in their clothes this summer than they ever have been before.

That revolution for comfort, started a few years back, has now rolled across every part of their wardrobe—business suits, sports clothes and liner clothes.

They can go to the office in slacks cool enough for a tropical climate. They can dine and dance in black trousers and light colored dinner coats all of tropical suiting. They can loaf in slacks, shirts and jackets which are not only comfortable and loose, but are more colorful than ever before.

The men themselves don't seem to have had a great deal to do with it. For the most part they suffered their heavy dark clothes in silence, except for mutterings in their dressing rooms and in the ears of their tailors. Even after tailors, manufacturers and retailers, working together, turned out more comfortable colorful clothes, many balked at wearing them. But now that the trend is established, they're trying it in greater numbers and in more ways than ever before.

Men-Folks Blossom Out

In sports modes, the old slacks suit (trousers and tuck-in shirt to match) has given way to a new combination of slacks and casual easy shirt-jacket of lightweight unlined wool, such as the Hialeah jacket (named for the Florida race track). Experts say when slacks are worn with a tuck-in shirt, it's smart to contrast the two in color.

Lots of the new sports shirts have long sleeves. (A new worry men have developed about showing hairy arms, and the cold weather in Florida this winter, probably account for that, the experts say). The shirts come in thin Irish linen, a crepe-like synthetic fabric made of goats' milk and pongee-like silk.

Wool slacks, and jackets to wear with them, are more colorful than ever. Plain ones come in a great variety of blues, gray-greens, tans and grays. New stripes, Glenurquhart plaid and hound's tooth checks show such bright colors as red or green mixed in their sober weaves.

They'll Hold a Press

There's a definite campaign for coolness and comfort in office suits. Best ones are a combination of mohair and worsted, which weighs about seven and a half ounces to the yard and which has a wiry weave that resists wrinkling. The suits are slightly padded in the shoulders, but are generally unlined. They're usually deep blue or gray, with tweed-like markings.

Newest shirts for town wear are finely pinchecked, rayons, in two-tone combination of white and a subdued color. Best men's shops in New York say that day shirts don't reflect a strong vogue for color. More white strong vogue for color. More white linen ones are being worn, and colored ones are generally in muted tones. Some have a new low-front collar designed to prevent wrinkling.

There's not a great deal of change

His Best Crop: Seventeen Children

BROOKLYN, La. —(P)—In spite of wars and depressions, John Kriegl and his wife are successfully rearing one of the largest families in Iowa.

In 24 years of married life the couple have had 17 children, all of whom are living. Youngest is Mary Jane, born in May; Lloyd, 23, is oldest.

Kriegl, now 46, and his wife, 42, put $12,000 in an Iowa farm in 1919, but lost it in the land depression of 1922.

"I've never been able to get very far ahead financially since," the father explains, "but I have my family."

In dinner clothes, which continue the comfort campaign. Combination favored by most good shops is black trousers of lightweight tropical suiting, gray, beige or white jacket of the same material and black cummerbund (to replace the waistcoat).

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of these gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste builds up in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, trouble at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with burning and itching sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BASICALLY DIFFERENT MOTOR OIL has 3 to 10 TIMES Stronger Film and Removes Carbon

LION NATURALUBE CLEANS OUT HARD CARBON WHILE YOU DRIVE SAVES FUEL, ADDS POWER

SAVES WEAR SAVES REPAIRS

Distilled from a rare petroleum, Naturalube possesses greater natural lubricating qualities than oils of conventional types.

Greater adhesiveness, penetrativeness and film strength enable Naturalube to promptly form a super-strong, protective film on all friction points in the motor. Immense tests have shown that Naturalube's protective film is three to ten times stronger than even the best known, highest-priced oils of other types.

Furthermore, Naturalube keeps motors cleaner than conventional type oils. Its natural solvent power gradually loosens hard carbon deposits which are blown out through the exhaust or washed away by the oil. Thus Naturalube conserves power, saves gasoline, and saves on the expense of cleaning out carbon.

Daily, thousands of motorists are proving that Naturalube's ability to remove hard carbon adds power and saves gasoline . . . also, that Naturalube's three to ten times stronger film saves wear and repairs.

Guard against motor troubles and unnecessary expense by having your motor drained and refilled with Lion Naturalube. The new type motor oil that removes carbon—adds power—saves wear. Sold at the sign of the Lion.

Money-Back Guarantee

If after a fair trial you don't believe Naturalube to be the best oil ever used—bring it back—your money will be refunded without question.

Nation's Schools Urged as Defense Training Centers

WASHINGTON — Before President Roosevelt gets action on his program to train a new supply of skilled labor for the rearmament program, he will have to settle what apparently is going to be a sharp scrap between two important branches of the federal government.

These are the National Youth Administration, headed by Aubrey Williams, and the Office of Education, headed by J. W. Studebaker. Each group is eager to see its own plan adopted. Betting at the moment is that Williams is likely to win out, since he is supposed to be closer to the administration. Studebaker's ace card, on the other hand, is that his plan is all set up, ready to go, with greater speed and a less expense.

Back of the argument is a basic disagreement over whether this training program is primarily a youth program or an educational program. Studebaker's office points out that the nation already has a billion dollar plant ready to do all the training or re-training that may be needed—the technical high schools and other vocational training schools of the regular public school system over the country. They are equipped with exactly the sort of tools and machines needed to prepare men for work in airplane factories, auto factories or machine shops.

Furthermore, for the past 10 years the Office of Education has fostered special courses to train craftsmen in the technique of teaching. There are thousands of these teachers on call.

Scientists Make Echo Machines

Organ's "Little Sir Echo Hides in a Wire Box

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

NEW YORK — Sometimes an echo is a nice thing to have around the house, and science has a machine which makes echoes to order.
This echo is for organs, so that in a small, carpeted room of a home, where there are no natural echoes, an organ will have the same reverberations as in the greatest cathedral.

The man-made echoes come right out of the organ. They follow the tones they imitate, after a delay of a second, more or less, according to the size of auditorium to be imitated or the acoustical requirements of the room. These echoes are made by the Hammond electric organ. As the electric current passes through the organ's loud speaker a tiny bit of the juice is switched off into a long thin box. This echo current carries all the tones of the music.

In the box it is converted into sound so slight as to be inaudible. The box is filled with long, steel springs, and the sound passes through them the same as through a wire. But this trip through the springs is slow. The result is that by the time the echo sound reaches the exit end of the box it is a second or more behind the original tones of which it was a part. The exit end is a crystal which reconverts the sound into electricity and shoots it to the organ's loud speaker.

A.F.L. Is Rejoined by Garment Union

Stalwart in CIO Movement Returns to Old Union

NEW YORK (AP)—The International Ladies Garment Workers Union—It was dissolved by the American Federation of Labor for joining the C. I. O. and later cut its ties with the latter—voted 540-12 Wednesday to rejoin its 250,000 members with the A. F. of L.

The union thus again bespoke its disapproval of the C. I. O.'s setting up a permanent organization to rival the A. F. of L. and put added pressure on both parent groups to end their estrangement.

The union's president, David Dubinsky, said A. F. of L.-C. I. O. peace prospects were considerably brighter. He said William Green, A. F. of L. president, told him recently the federation "was ready to go further than ever before."

But John L. Lewis said in Washington Wednesday the C. I. O. Peace Committee and the Executive Board believe resumption of peace negotiations would be "futile and wasteful of time."

Soap and Water Are Makeup Aid

Peggy Healey, Manager of Models, Gives Advice

By the Associated Press

The trend in lipsticks, as Peggy Healey sees it, is darker for blondes, lighter for brunettes.

Peggy, who told us this as she smiled across a big desk at the models agency, has seen a lot of makeup in five years of dashing across Europe and America, modeling fashions and posing for photographs.

She's a blonde herself, and thinks the darker makeup gives her an exotic flare, especially in the evening. And, she's a blonde, and thinks the darker makeup gives her an exotic flare, especially in the evening. And, she's a blonde, and thinks the darker makeup gives her an exotic flare, especially in the evening.

Cleanliness really is next to godliness. (Peggy favors cold showers and plenty of soap and water for her face. She doesn't depend on a lot of creams.)

Foundation makeup should be chosen carefully for each skin. Practice in applying makeup is the surest way to get that essential natural look.

Peggy Healey demonstrated a neat trick for applying rouge. She sucked in her cheeks, deeply, then dotted rouge on the high point of her cheek bone and blended it down the cheek slightly into the hollow. That made her cheeks look less broad. It's a method that can be adapted by experiment to whatever shape face you have.

Eye makeup, Peggy says, is very important these days. It takes time, too. Black mascara is the thing. Omit eye shadow if you have large eyes. You can make small eyes lovelier by penciling a tiny line from the inner corner of the eye, across the lashes out and up a bit at the outer corner.

She's Boston born and bred. Started modeling to prove her independence when she came to New York to study art. She has studied art abroad, too.

She chose to live at a girls' hotel near her work because of good private concerts there and also because she doesn't like exercise, even walking, too well. She does like to read and to dance. And even with her days jammed with posing appointments she can find time to assemble 40 models for a charity ball.

Shifty Gears Is Softball's Best

Has Pitched 18 Years and Hurlled 54 No-Hitters

By JERRY BRONDFIELD
NAE Service Staff Correspondent

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (Shifty) Gears is softball's composite of Bob Feller, Walter Johnson and Cy Young. Perhaps the greatest pitcher ever to step on a softball field, the 32-year-old, bespectacled athlete has compiled a record that defies parallel.

Shifty Gears started chucking a softball 18 years ago and has 54 no-hit games to his credit.

Employed as a sheet metal worker at Eastman Kodak Company, for which he now pitches, Gears has won 683 games and lost 87. More than 300 of his victories were shutouts. His strikeouts total is close to 11,500.

Gears has been with practically every Rochester and New York State championship team in the last 10 years. He is touted for Kodak Park in the last four national championships.

Yields One Run in Six Starts in Three Days
In 1935, when Kodak was runner-up in the national tournament in Chicago, Gears pitched six games in three days, winning the first five by shutouts and losing the final to Toledo, 3-1. In 1936, when Kodak won the crown, Gears won five games, four of them shutouts.

Kodak was a third-round victim in 1937, Gears winning one and losing one to South Bend. Kodak was eliminated in the second round last year, after Gears had twirled a no-hitter against Baltimore.

Gears has worn glasses since he was a kid.

He played some baseball, but caught the softball bug in high school.

He can put the ball to within an inch of where he wants it, with blinding speed.

Not a Walk in 10 Straight Games
Gears once hurled 10 straight league games without giving a base on balls and never has passed more than four men in one game.

When the pitching distance was 40 feet he depended mostly on fast ball with a decided rise. Now, with the distance lengthened three feet, he uses more curves.

A fooling change of pace is another of his weapons, but he uses no trick deliveries, the present rules, forbidding them.

For 16 years Gears pitched to the same catcher—Joe Scheid, who retired this season.

Shifty Gears is married and the father of three children, but shows no sign of giving up his place in softball.

WITH THE COUNTY AGENT

Oliver L. Adams

It is difficult to prevent all poultry diseases, but fowl pox is one that can be prevented positively and cheaply. Vaccine is cheap, easily administered, and no expensive equipment is required; for less than one cent a bird, flock owners may insure their flocks against this disease.

Fowl pox, also called chicken pox, sore head, or canker, usually attacks pullets just as they reach full production and often wipes out the entire year's profit. According to S. A. Moore of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture there is no effective treatment for birds after they contract the disease.

The ideal age for vaccination is between 6 and 12 weeks. Mr. Moore says. Older birds may be vaccinated successfully, but disastrous results often follow the vaccinations of pullets that are in production. The vaccinated birds should be examined in 10 days, and any that have failed to "take"

Won't Turn Over Planes to Allies

Senate Again Rejects Sen. Pepper's Proposal

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee flatly rejected again Wednesday an effort by Senator Pepper (Dem., Fla.) to put American assistance to the Allies on an "everything-short-of-war" basis.

Pepper persistently has urged sale to the Allies of planes and equipment now owned by the army and navy. A proposal by the committee several days ago, with Pepper casting the only affirmative vote.

He revived the proposal Wednesday in slightly altered form and was downed, 19 to 2, Senator Guffey (Dem., Pa.) voted with him. Pepper said he would make another effort to obtain approval.

"I have a suspicion," he said, "that the senate is not willing to act at all on this proposal to help the Allies, and I think the people of the country will be interested in knowing that fact."

He said that if the United States promptly made its military equipment, including army and navy planes, available to the Allies, they could "save Paris and London."

should be vaccinated again.

Corn intended for quick freezing keeps better and tastes better if it is washed and then scalded on the cob before it is cut, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Most vegetables to be quick-frozen are first scalded in boiling water or live steam to stop the action of plant enzymes or ferments which cause off-flavors and odors in food. The Department's Frozen Laboratory at Seattle, Washington, is studying quick-freezing methods for foods. The sugar content of corn washed and scalded after removing from the cob is reduced about 50 per cent, workers at the laboratory report. They recommend that packers of frozen vegetables scald corn before cutting it off the cob.

The first cast iron bridge ever made is still in use in the Severn valley, England. It was cast in 1179.

Chocolate Drinks For Summertime

Cool Drinks Are Popular With the Whole Family

By Mrs. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer
One taste of chocolate makes the whole world kin—or at least a large part of the thirsty world. These summer drinks with chocolate or cocoa here are just what your family will order.

Chocolate Highball
One-half cup chilled milk, 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup or cocoa syrup, 1/2 cup cold ginger ale, vanilla ice cream.

Add milk slowly to syrup, stirring constantly; pour into tall glass. Add ginger ale and stir enough to mix. Add ice cream and serve at once.

Chocolate Pineapple Float
Three-fourths cup chilled milk, 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup or cocoa syrup, 1/4 cup crushed canned pineapple and juice, chocolate ice cream and hurried from the auditorium in a rage. The professor later apologized. Bewildered and nettled, he had completely lost control of himself.

"That learned man had broken under the strain of encountering something his mind could neither grasp nor understand, which is simply one more fact that Bobo has found to be true in his study of the human mind.

The smarter they are the easier they are to fool. The reason is not mysterious, it is found in the fundamental facts of the human mind through the study which Bobo has made himself.

Since the minds of children are inclined to wander, it is therefore harder to fool them than adults who habitually pay close attention. Bobo will appear at the city auditorium at 8 p. m.

Rain Bringer-Upper Warns Weather Man

PITTSBURGH, Kans. (AP)—F. W. Brinkerhoff, Pittsburgh editor who made a reputation for himself last year by getting a rain every time he demanded one editorially, hopes to lighten his task this summer.

He put in a blanket demand the other day for a rain whenever one might be needed and then admonished the weather man: "We trust it will not be necessary for us to say anything more about it the rest of the year."

Kroger Employees to Get Vacation

2,000 More Than Last Year Eligible for Vacations

Nearly 17,000 employees of the Kroger company will receive vacations with pay this year, G. E. Houston, branch manager in charge of Kroger stores in this area, announced Thursday.

This represents an increase of 2,000 over the number eligible for vacations in 1939, due to further liberalization of the firm's policy, Houston explained.

Approximately 260 Little Rock branch employees are included in the list of those eligible for one to two weeks of vacation for 1940, he said.

"It has been the custom of the Kroger company for many years to provide vacations with pay for its employees. Last year the length of service requirement was reduced so that every employee with as much as one year of service was included in the vacation list," he added.

"A total of 22,071 weeks will be devoted to vacation jaunts this year by Kroger employees. If one employee were to take all of this year's vacation time, it would require 424 years for him to complete it."

or vanilla ice cream.

Add milk slowly to syrup, stirring constantly; add pineapple, and heat or shake well. Pour into tall glasses. Add ice cream and serve at once.

Minted chocolate
One cup chilled milk, 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup or cocoa syrup, 2 to 3 drops peppermint extract, 2 tablespoons whipped cream.

Add milk slowly to syrup, stirring constantly. Add flavorings, and beat or shake well. Pour into tall glasses. Top with cream; garnish with sprig of mint, if desired.

Chocolate Syrup
Five squares unsweetened chocolate, 1 cup sugar, two-thirds cup hot water, 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten.

Melt chocolate over hot water; cool to lukewarm. Add sugar to water; stirring until sugar is dissolved; cool to lukewarm. Add syrup to egg yolks about one-fourth at a time, beating well after each addition; add chocolate in the same way.

Then continue beating mixture 1 minute, or until slightly thickened. Turn into jar, cover tightly, and place in refrigerator. Syrup can be kept for several days. Use 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup to 1 cup milk. Makes 2 cups syrup.

Economists' Idea Killed in Action

All Agreed Months Ago That Nazis' Couldn't Last

By JACK STINETT

WASHINGTON — Washington has been pinching itself ever since the Nazi blitzkrieg started, trying to find out if it had been completely asleep during those months when the experts assured them that Germany couldn't last six months in a major war.

Undoubtedly Great Britain, France and a lot of small neutrals have been wondering the same thing—but they didn't need to pinch themselves. The Nazis waked them up to a living nightmare of bombs, and blood and burning death.

But the nation that economic observers said couldn't last has been able to throw into lightning war resources which would burden the wealthiest country in the world.

Fleets of huge tanks, armored with the most invulnerable steel, using six gallons of fuel to a mile, roll relentlessly across hundreds of miles from Germany to the sea. Thousands of great bombers, daily burning gas and oil by the thousand tons, sweep devastation ahead of the tanks. Hundreds of thousands of well-fed, well-clothed, well-armed soldiers pour into the paths of death cut by the machines.

Portable bridges, parachutes by the thousands, a mosquito fleet that threatens to descend in hordes on the English navy, thousands of rubber boots to clear the marshes and ponds, the wave of a wand from a nation that had rebelled against Europe "only because it was hungry and destitute in the midst of its neighbors' plenty."

The only answer you'll find in these parts is that Germany lied—lied about its production, its imports, its consumption. The Nazis must have been lying for years, say the economists.

Greater Germany, with the countries under its thumb today, according to best guesses, is able to get oil of more than 8,000,000 tons of oil products annually.

Synthetic oil products alone will be produced in Germany this year to the tune of 4,000,000 tons and the Reich already has commitments for 1,600,000 tons from Rumania, where the price has risen from $15 to $45 a ton since the war started.

More than a million and a half Polish field workers have been poured onto the farms of Germany and its captive lands. Czechoslovakian factories, according to confidential government reports, are being stripped, and the fertile Czech and Moravian valleys are being returned to agriculture.

The slaughter of 3,000,000 fine Danish cattle, 3,000,000 pigs and more than 30,000,000 hens already is well under way, with estimates that 20 per cent of the cattle, a third of the hogs and two-thirds of the chickens will be gone by autumn. If need be, the farms of Holland and Belgium can be turned to producing food for the Reich's army.

There is no doubt that Germany's economy was not geared for a long war, but neither is there any doubt now, say figure tappers, that her reserves were far in excess of what anyone had been led to believe.

Desperation breeds ingenuity, but the boys who make up the records for your government can't find—in the light of their new enlightenment—that there is any indication yet that the Nazis are being called upon to strain their ingenuity.

Children Often Alarm Parents

Alarmist Type Are Considered Problem Parents

By SARA WINSLOW

How many times a day do you say to your child, "Be careful, you'll get hurt?"

If you say it even twice a day, you're probably a problem parent—the alarmist type.

Nobody expects you to look on undisturbed while your child teeters dangerously at the edge of a precipice, but there are ways and ways of avoiding danger. Constant nagging is a poor way.

A real alarmist parent does more than nag. He tries to wrap his child in cotton batting. He's a spoil sport.

He says, "No you can't go swimming. You'll get drowned if you start playing around that dangerous river."

He says, "I wish we'd never given you that bicycle. No, you can't ride it to school. I don't care what Chuck's father lets him do. I don't want you to get hurt."

He says, "If you must roller skate, go slow. You might fall and break your leg the way that Jones boy did last week. Be careful—be careful—be careful."

Children of alarmist parents react in one of two ways. One sort ignores his parents as much as possible and goes ahead doing as he pleases. He sneaks off to the river and learns to swim. He waits till everyone is out of sight and then sets forth on his bicycle. This child at least learns independence of action and fearlessness. But he also learns to be deceitful.

A different sort of child takes his parents' seriously. He grows timid and suspicious; he's afraid to do anything.

In either case, the alarmist problem parent had better mend his ways. He can minimize risks in sensible ways. He can teach his child to be a good swimmer. He can teach his child traffic rules, so he can steer his bicycle with greater safety.

He can forewarn and forearm his child through careful training. More he cannot do. He'll still worry, but he should bite his lips every time he's tempted to say, "Be careful, you'll get hurt."

BARBS

With the Nazis in control of the air, and the British of the sea, it would seem the meek neutrals were about to come into their inheritance.

Now that the allies are through juggling prime ministers and generals, maybe they can buckle down to this business of waging war.

The kiss, say the psychologists, is not a natural caress, can it be man has at last found a way to improve upon nature?

Politics is defined as the science of government, but it takes a sense to figure out the next moves of the game.

Think twice before you speak, caution our elders, unaware that such action is what brought on the epidemic of doubletalk.

WE THE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLETT

The June bride who plans to go back to her typewriter after the two-week honeymoon is over is well aware that running a house and earning a pay check at the same time is a large order.

She has been told of all the dangers and warned of all the tough spots.
So it may comfort her to learn that there are advantages as well as disadvantages to being a working wife.

She'll Be Too Busy For Boredom

In the first place, she won't be bored—not for a minute—for the simple reason that she won't have a minute in which to be bored.

And with all the discontented, young bridge-playing wives there are today, that is a great advantage.

Then, too, the working wife is not likely to be jealous of her husband.
It takes time to wonder if a man is having lunch with a pretty girl, or if he really had a good reason for being late the night before. The working wife hasn't time for such suspicions.

Also, there will be no resentment when her husband says, "Let's stay home tonight." After a hard day's work she is as ready for an evening of reading and early-to-bed as he is.

Working Gives Her an Out

Then, too, if she is the kind of woman who finds teas, afternoon parties and meetings deadly, she has a perfect alibi for skipping all these.
In fact, she doesn't even have to bother to refuse invitations. All her friends know that her time is not her own.

And she won't have constantly to impress on her husband the fact that he married a smart woman, as stay-at-home wives have to do continually by telling what good managers they are.

The working wife's pay check is weekly evidence that she is doing her part.

A combination toothbrush and mouth wash atomizer which sprays as it brushes to teeth can be bought in Norway.

Teeth are composed of approximately one-fifth water.

PROPOSED BY ROOSEVELT! FOR U. S. ARMY AND NAVY

50,000 Planes

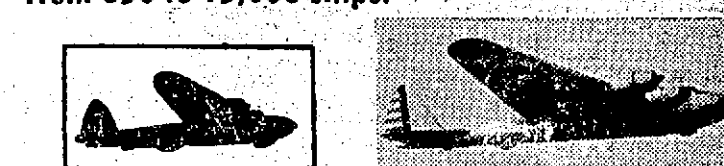

These charts show what achievement of President Roosevelt's proposed air force of 50,000 planes would mean to the international air power balance, and to the U. S. air corps and its personnel. The pictograph shows the tremendous margin of air strength the 50,000 planes would give America over the warring nations. The figures on the foreign air forces are averages of several authoritative estimates. While the belligerents are stepping up production beyond that shown on the chart, experts doubt they will be able to augment their air arms greatly. The chart directly above shows the big increase in personnel necessary to man and service the new planes. The present pilot corps of about 8000 men would have to be built up to around 100,000; the servicing and supply force would probably be increased to 450,000. Lineup of planes at right shows likely division of the new planes on the assumption the whole force might be army planes. Organization navy style would provide more long-distance bombers.

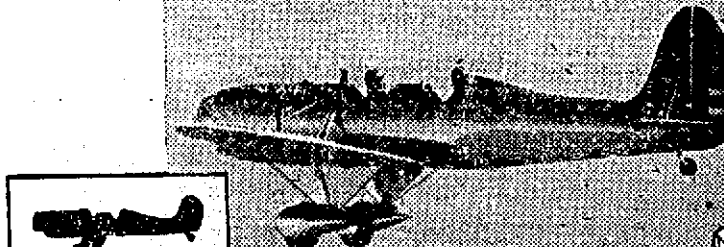

Pursuit planes to be increased from 750 to 17,500 ships.

Observation and reconnaissance planes from 850 to 15,000 ships.

Heavy bombers from 2400 to 5000 ships.

Training planes from 1200 to 12,500 ships.

No one knows whether these clowns have the traditional itch to play Hamlet, but at least they met the greatest Hamlet of them all when the John Barrymores attended the circus in New York recently. Above, John gives one of them some pointers on clowning while his wife, Elaine Barrie (right) looks on.
